

Susan Ingham

Susan Ingham is a licensed architect practicing in Seattle, Washington, USA. Her firm, KASA Architecture, was founded in 2004 and specializes in residential design. The main focus of her work is to try to create environments with beauty where her clients can feel a deep sense of belonging. Susan obtained both her bachelor's and master's degrees in architecture from the University of California, Berkeley, where she studied and worked intensively with Christopher Alexander and his colleagues. Susan has given lectures at national and international conferences, has been a guest on podcasts and radio shows, and her work has been published in several books and periodicals. One of the founders and core faculty members of Building Beauty, a post-graduate architecture program based on Christopher Alexander's theories and methods, Susan teaches the Design Studio course both online and in Sorrento, Italy.
